A letter from Mr. Joseph Bird, Jr. dated Forteau (spelled Fortean in this letter), 7th August.

"I have been obliged to relinquish my father's settlement in Bonne Bay which he has held for about the last 13 years in favour of the French. On the 31st of May I arrived at Bonne Bay with the usual supplies of craft, stores and people necessary for the summer's fishery. There was a French fishing brig off the boom which prevented me from fishing. I had a big salmon fishery here, but as soon as they told me to leave I agreed to take my people up to the Labrador and place them in the cod fishery for the remainder of the summer. When the French saw my people go off to their posts in the salmon fishery, they sent to the Bay of Islands, where there are still many English who remain unmolested in their salmon fishery, for a French naval officer, who upon arriving at Bonne Bay told me to get my people from their posts and send them to Labrador where I sent them on the 8th inst. together with my property. In expectation of having my usual catch of salmon at Bonne Bay which annually consists of 160 tierces, my father chartered a vessel to take it to market, and to fill up from this place with fish previous to my leaving England, which vessel I expect will arrive in due time. This disappointment of the salmon together with the cost of the outfits of nets and lately a great deal of expense in building up a stage and wharf to make the establishment more suitable will be a very serious loss.
