JOHN NICHOLL versus JAMES BELBIN.

September 10th, 1810.

The Plaintiff complained that on or about the 21st of October last the Defendant sold to his (Ptf's) servants spirituous liquor, whereby most of them
10 became extremely intoxicated, to the great prejudice of the Plaintiff and caused the detention of a Brig called the Princess Royal for twelve hours at that late season of the year; he therefore prays the Court will, for the sake of example, punish the said James Belbin for the same.

[10 Sept.,
1810.]

Francis Le Marquand, Sworn, Deposed that he was supplied with a gallon, or a gallon and a half, of liquor by the Defendant at that time for which he paid him seven shillings per gallon.

John Keates Sworn. Deposeth that he is winter agent, and master of a voyage in the summer for the Plaintiff, that he was on the Ptf's room at the time above mentioned, and that he observed several of the crew very drunk.
20 Witness further deposed that he having charge of the stores of the Plaintiff, must have known had the crew received liquor from thence, but none was delivered to them from the said stores.

Nicholas Roberts, Fisherman, Sworn. Deposeth that he was in the Plaintiffs employ at the time mentioned in the complaint and that he, this deponent, observed on the evening previous to the sailing of the Princess Royal, several of the crew drunk, but does not know where they got the liquor. Witness bought a gallon or half a gallon (cannot exactly say which), from the Defendant for which he paid him at the rate of seven shillings per gallon. That the day before the Princess Royal sailed he heard the Plaintiff, 30 who was her Captain say that the people were so drunk as to prevent the vessel sailing that day, and that at the same time the wind was fair.

Defendant admits that he did sell some liquor to the Plaintiffs men, but he thinks the liquor which occasioned the general drunkenness complained of was supplied by some schooners a few days before that time in Forteau Bay and knows that liquor was frequently got from them.

The charge having been fully proved the Court decrees that the Defendant be fined in the sum of ten pounds to our Sovereign Lord the King with costs of Court, but in consideration of the general good character of the Defendant the Court recommends him to His Excellency the Governor for a 40 reduction of the fine, it not being in the power of the Magistrates to pass sentence for a less sum agreeably to Governor Gambiers Proclamation.
