Dated the 16th March, 1763, the examination of George Short, Mariner, married man, now residing in Winborne. Born at the Parish of Hook in Dorset, lived with his father to the age of 20 or thereabouts. When he was thirteen or fourteen, he went to live with farmer, Henry March of the same place. Lived with him by the year, and at a certain price for the year. After which, he did this for four or five years, after which he went to sea in the merchant service. First with Bernard Batson, planter then residing in Newfoundland, being hired by Issac Lester, Poole Merchant for the said Bernard Batson, for two summers and one winter for which he had by agreement the sum of twelve pounds, with whom he continued as a servant for two years more. The whole of which service with the said Batson was in Newfoundland after which he lived with Thomas Archer in Newfoundland, as a servant by the year for three years. At the expiration of these three years, he returned to England since which time he has eligible the seas with different masters, serving by the month only.
